

WASHINGTON, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—On the plain granite block in Arlington Cemetery, which a year ago became a new shrine to American ideals, there descended today a wealth of flowers, and reverently there to commemorate the first anniversary of the homecoming of America's unknown soldier from France. The utter simplicity of the scene today, contrasted against memories of pomp and splendor of a year ago in the same beauty of setting, served to add new glory to that which is idealized in the blood of this humble soldier, shed in France the high purpose that is Americanism. Again President Harding made the pilgrimage from Washington in behalf of his countrymen. But this time the message he bore was no spoken word, but a simple wreath to rest on the great stone. For the army, Secretary Weeks accompanied the president and for the navy, Secretary Denby. There were many others who took occasion to pay homage to the unknown, among them General Pershing. The general could not go in person for he had been called to New York, but his aide bore the wreath to the great stone around which the flowers, clustered as the day moved on. But America's share in Armistice Day was not confined to those at home. The dead in France were not forgotten, nor was there lack of American fellowship, at the great ceremony in Brussels, where the Belgian, unknown, perhaps among the first to fall in the great war, was endowed amid scenes such as those that witnessed the honor Great Britain, France, Italy and America did their hero dead. For the American army, regular reservist or national guardsmen, Secretary Weeks sent this message to the Belgian minister of war: "On behalf of the members of the army of the United States, I offer homage to their former comrade, the unknown Belgian hero." General Pershing sent his personal message to the Belgian chief of staff: "I desire to offer personal homage to my former comrade, the Belgian soldier, unknown in name but a sharer in heroic deeds with which his country's name will ever be associated." As formally expressing the comradeship of the American government in tribute to the Belgian unknown, President Harding has approved the following citation which will be stored with the congressional medals. (Continued on Page Three)

EXPLOSION ON SHIP

CHESTER, PENNA., November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—An explosion, believed to have been caused by gas in the tanker J. N. Pew, under repairs at the Sun Ship Building Yard here killed two workmen, injured two others, wrecked the vessel with a loss estimated at nearly $200,000 and threw a part of the city into a state of excitement early today.

The dead are: George Hunter and Harry Schley, both of Chester. The injured are Forest Helise and Joseph Cohen, also of Chester. Torches, such the workmen were using to burn off the heads of rivets, inside the crude oil tanks, are believed to have exploded heavy gas in the tanks, one of which blew up. Twenty members of the crew of the Pew were asleep in their quarters and not one was injured.

Fragments of steel and other things flew over the heads of 300 workmen in another part of the yard. The vessel had just returned from Texas bringing crude oil to Marcus Hook and went into dry dock last night for repairs.

Roads Denied Right To Decrease Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Applications of trans-continental railroads for authority to decrease rates to and from Pacific coast terminals on traffic originating east of the Rocky Mountains or destined there, were denied today by the Interstate Commerce commission.

The railroads had declared the reduction was necessary to enable them to meet coast to coast competition of steamship lines. Practically all commodities included in the commerce from the Pacific coast were covered in the railroad's application.

The Southern Pacific Railroad, however, was authorized to reduce rail and water rates on certain commodities produced in California and destined to the Atlantic Coast via Galveston and the Gulf of Mexico steamship lines. This will allow the Southern Pacific and steamship lines to make a joint rate of 70 cents per 100 pounds on the coast to coast movement of asphalt, canned goods, fruit, and rice and 80 cents on dried fruits, even though rates for shorter distances over the same general route may be higher. The same company was authorized to maintain similar rates on sulphur moving from Louisiana and Texas to Pacific Coast points.

Series Of Mysterious Deaths Probed

CHICAGO, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Another name was added today to the list of deaths under investigation as a result of the alleged poison plot of Mrs. Tillie Klimek and her cousin, Mrs. Nellie Sturmer Koulik.

John W. Guskowski died several years ago under mysterious circumstances after a quarrel with Mrs. Klimek, according to the police and coroner's office who asked relatives of Guskowski to consent to an examination of his body.

Three of the five bodies already examined are those of former husbands of Mrs. Klimek.

Poison was found in the first two bodies exhumed, according to coroner's physicians. Police say all the dead husbands carried insurance, as did Anton Klimek, whose illness from poison led to the arrest of his wife and Mrs. Koulik, now charged with murder.

Premier Of Italy Aims Opinions On Burning Problems Of The World

ROME, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Premier Mussolini has now gone through the baptism of oratorical fire from the lips of the American correspondents in Rome. He received them yesterday, aired his opinions on most of the supposed burning problems of the world and chatted at length upon such timely topics as prohibition and women's suffrage.

The interview was launched upon the topic of reparations. Mussolini said that in his opinion it was impossible to separate the question of reparations from that of inter-allied debts, even where the latter affects the United States.

He was very cordial in his references to the relations between Italy and the United States and said he hoped to add to the good will prevailing between the two countries on economic cooperation that would be mutually beneficial.

On woman suffrage Mussolini said with conviction that he was absolutely opposed to it. Then, seeming to feel that his remarks had not been properly interpreted, he added that he did not think general conditions were yet ripe for such a franchise.

"When they are ripe, we will give the women the vote and then they will have no desire to vote," he said. The prohibition question was popped to him. He said he was not in favor of complete dryness, but thought that partly by legislation and partly by persuasion, people must be taught to drink less.

Attending to the financial and economic situation in Italy, Mussolini said Italy would make no more debts. "It is unnecessary for her to make debts," he said. "We can establish economic and financial equilibrium by reforms and retrenchment in administrative expenditures."

Mussolini said he thought the Brussels conference would meet after the return of the British financial mission from America. He said the Russians have a right to be repa-

Communication Is Severed By Disturbances

SANTIAGO, CHILE, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Severe earthquake shocks were felt in various parts of Chile shortly before midnight and again early today. From various points in Central Chile came reports of houses falling and other damage. A report from Antofagasta, north of Valparaiso, said that a tidal wave came in shortly after midnight, smashing small vessels and swept over the homes of fishermen and workers.

So far no loss of life has been reported but communication lines to many points are out of order. Reports received just before dawn said the shocks were continuing at Hapel, Unadices and La Serena. The latter city was wrecked by a severe earthquake in 1907. The sea was rising there this morning. A dispatch at 2:30 o'clock said a heavy shock lasting five minutes, had just been felt at La Serena. It brought down many walls and telegraph poles, putting the city in darkness.

Telephone communication from La Serena to the port of Coquimbo was broken off shortly after 1:30 o'clock when the operator at Coquimbo left his post upon hearing a report that the sea was advancing inland. At that hour fire was reported to have broken out at Coquimbo. Additional shocks of great intensity were felt here just before 3:00 a. m.

Pulse Of British Empire Stops Its Beat As Tribute To Veterans

LONDON, November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—The pulse of the empire stopped its beat at 11 o'clock this morning as tribute to the memory of its fighters. From the moment, signalling the hour at which hostilities ceased four years ago, until two minutes had gone by, everything and every one in the nation was still.

There were no elaborate ceremonies to mark the great silence. Even at the cenotaph in White Hall, the heart of the empire, the proceedings were for the most part, simple. The king, representing the nation, laid a wreath on the memorial of the silent sons of Britain. The industry, the army, the navy and the dominions paid similar tribute and then the people coming in a great pilgrimage through White Hall, placed their offerings about the memorial.

Throughout the day thousands passed in a constant stream by the tomb of the unknown warrior in West Minister Abbey. This was "Poppy Day," and millions wore the little symbols recalling the poppies that grew in Flanders Fields. The money received from the sale of the flowers will go to help the ex-servicemen and their dependents.

Fire Destroys Garage And Machine

Fire starting from an explosion of gasoline totally destroyed the frame garage and Ford Sedan of Jesse Hodges at Midway, between Schoolville and Wheelersburg Friday evening about 6:45 o'clock. Hodges' clothing was saturated with gasoline and he quickly ignited. He was only slightly burned, the fire in his clothing being put out by his daughter, Mrs. L. Shuster, who wrapped an overcoat about him after he ran from the burning garage. The damage is estimated at more than $1,000, as he had corn and other grain stored in the garage.

Mr. Hodges was filling the gasoline tank of his machine when the accident happened. An oil lantern was hanging near the car and the fumes of the gas enveloping the chimney of the "blowdown" ignited and there was a loud report causing the explosion which followed. An alarm was telephoned to one of the local fire departments, and the Portsmouth officials, in turn quickly notified the New Boston station. The village company responded, and a local fire crew was dispatched to New Boston to "fill in."

Bucket brigades had been organized and men had fought valiantly with garden hose to save the structure, but their efforts were in vain. The building was soon a smoldering pile. The fire did not last long due to the nature of the building and the articles which it housed. It burned like kindling wood. The fire fighters managed to protect the residence of Mr. Hodges, a cottage located about twenty-five feet from the garage, which was threatened for a time.

The driver of the machine did not halt but instead sped up and resumed, although Mitchell claims to have obtained the license number of the auto carried. An investigation disclosed that the car is owned by a Pike county man, and charges may be filed.

Harvard First To Score

HARVARD STADIUM, November 11.—Score and third period: Princeton, 10; Harvard, 3.

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, MASS., November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—The Princeton Tiger stalked again on a crimson football field today. Before a crowd of 52,000 that filled the stadium banked under the colonnade piled on the roof and massed on the wooden stands that blocked the open end, the teams of Harvard and Princeton met to begin determination of the championship among the "big three." A bright sun and a moderate wind made conditions well nigh perfect. The turf was fairly firm, although worn almost bare by a season's play.

First Period
Harvard tallied the first points against the Tigers, when Princeton was forced to punt from her three yard line, after fumbling a kick.

Owen made a goal from placement on the thirty yard line, Princeton continued its punting policy and at the end of the period, it was Harvard's ball on the Tigers' 34-yard line.

Score: Harvard, 3; Princeton, 0.

Early in the second period, Owen, of Harvard, attempted another field goal from 27 yards, but failed. Princeton then failing to gain on plunges, punted to Harvard's 37-yard line. Herberk, of Harvard, fumbled on the next play, and Duker of Princeton, obtained the ball on Harvard's 13-yard line. A series of line plunges after a five-yard penalty, put Crum of Princeton, over for a touchdown. Dinsmore then kicked goal.

Score: Princeton, 7; Harvard, 3.

In Silent Prayer City Observes Armistice Day

Business in many places in the city was suspended and many persons stopped and stood in silent prayer from 11 until 11:02 o'clock this morning in reverential remembrance of the fourth anniversary of Armistice Day, the great day when all hostilities stopped in the World War, where thousands of Americans laid down their lives in the struggle for freedom.

At eleven o'clock factory whistles sounded and bells were rung calling attention to the public that it was eleven o'clock, the hour when on November 11, 1918 the last shot rang in the mighty conflict "over there."

Some business places and homes had Old Glory displayed as the main decoration. Members of James Hickey Post No. 27 American Legion had made plans for the Armistice Day program in this city.

Will Be Known As Theodore Roosevelt Preserve

COLUMBUS, Nov. 11.—(By the United Press)—Recommendation of the Portsmouth Chamber of Commerce and seconded by State Senator Atwood of Columbus, secretary of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, made to the state department of agriculture that Ohio's new game preserve in Scioto county be named the Harry L. Davis Preserve was overruled today by Gov. Davis. Informed by Secretary of Agriculture Tabor of the proposed name, the governor directed Tabor to inform those making the recommendation that the governor has decided to name the 15,000 acre woodland tract "The Theodore Roosevelt Preserve."

"Roosevelt," the governor said, "would have preferred such a memorial rather than one in marble. People of Ohio likewise," he said, "will give their approval."

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors passed favorably upon the suggestion that the name Harry L. Davis Game Preserve be applied to the West Side tract upon the suggestion of Attorney Arthur Bannan and other local sportsmen who believed that such an honor was due Governor Davis on account of the steps he took in helping secure the game preserve for this country. The action of the Governor today in overruling such a suggestion will be a surprise to the local sportsmen.

State Scores On Chicago

OHIO STADIUM, COLUMBUS, O., November 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Bright sunshine and a brisk wind greeted spectators who arrived early for the Chicago-Ohio State football game. Although not snappy, the weather was cool enough to produce good football. Brief ceremonies in celebration of Armistice Day, were held before the game. The Ohio State Band sounded taps at the foot of the big flagstaff and a University Cadet Corps squad fired a volley in honor of the war dead.

Chicago's gaily dressed band of sixty pieces with its eight foot bass drum, said to be the largest in the world, made a bit when it marched on the field. About 1,500 Chicago rooters were in the stand. Both teams took the field at 1:30 and after limbering up, returned to their quarters.

At 1:50 the great stadium did not appear much more than half filled, but spectators were still arriving by thousands.

Shortly before game time more than forty thousand persons were in the stand, Ohio State cheering rooters kept a continuous uproar.

Chicago and chose to receive at the south end of the field. Pity kicked off to J. Thomas who ran back to 23 yard line. Thomas fumbled and Ohio recovered on Chicago's 21 yard line.

Receives Postcard Shower

About three months ago Dr. E. M. Dixon, of Stockdale, suffered a severe stroke of paralysis. The community was deeply grieved for his friends, who are legion, feared his usefulness was over and that they were about to lose their friend and physician. He is now getting about as free by the assistance of others.

A few days ago his brother-in-law, J. Frank Idey of Lucasville planned a postal shower on the Doctor to remind him of his 50th birthday. He was overwhelmed with the response of his friends. Two hundred and sixty seven cards came in one mail. They were of many varieties but he remarked that each card meant the same to him, for they were all from friends and it was a pleasure to be remembered.

Dr. Dixon is a man of sterling Christian character and admired by all for his courteous treatment and real worth.

He wishes through the press to publicly express his heartfelt thanks to one and all for their remembrance. His friends and patrons wish that he may live to experience many happy returns of the day.

Games, drills and various stunts were given by the little folks for the enjoyment of their guests, and before the meeting adjourned delicious refreshments, which the class brought with them, were served. The evening was one of rare pleasure for all the participants.

These making the trip included the teacher of the class, Miss Verena Graham, the Misses Carol and Dorothy Patton, Helen Walden, Freda Chandler, Louise Albert, Evelyn Wallace, Vera Purdy, Gladys Golden, Lucine Smith, Rachel Tracer, Alvin Yeager, Ruth Richards, Leola Rathford, Hattie Long, Catherine Allen, Mrs. Edith McCall, Mrs. Pearl Bauer and Mrs. Frank Appel and Ralph Loft.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the parsonage of Trinity church last evening, when the pastor, Rev. William C. Milliken, united in marriage Miss Garnet Gustin, charming young daughter of Mrs. Mary W. Gustin of 1445 Eleventh street, and Mr. Ben H. Brown. The young couple were attended by Miss Doris Smith and the bride's mother. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple went to the home of the bride where they will reside for the present. Miss Gustin was a senior at the local high school, and the news of her marriage will come as a surprise to her many friends.

Mrs. Roy Lynn will sing a solo at the morning service at the First Evangelical church tomorrow.

OBITUARY

Gottlieb Plich

Gottlieb Plich, one of the best known farmers in the Powellsburg community passed away Thursday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock after a long illness of pneumonia. Mr. Plich had been ill for a year. He was born in Germany and was 72 years of age at the time of the final summons. He came to this country with his parents when a small boy. Most of his life was spent in and near Powellsburg where he was a successful farmer.

His wife was Miss Katherine Lamb, a niece of Jacob Holstetter of 812 Grimes avenue.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Katherine Plich and five children: three sons, Fred Plich and Walter Plich of Powellsburg, Rev. John Plich of Stanton, Ind., and two daughters, Mrs. Laura Streble of Powellsburg, and Miss Anna Plich of Columbus.

He was a member of the Lutheran church at Powellsburg. Funeral services will be held from the Powellsburg church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. N. B. Basmann in charge. Burial at Powellsburg.

Funeral of Miss Dill

Funeral services of Miss Georgia Dill of Twelfth street, who passed away Friday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Cook, 420 Campbell avenue, will be held from the home on Campbell avenue at three o'clock Sunday afternoon with Rev. C. W. Brady of Manly church in charge. Burial will be in Rush town cemetery.

J. Wesley Brown

J. Wesley Brown son of Wm. Harrison and Minerva Brown born April 2, 1853, died Nov. 5, 1922 aged 69 years, 7 months and 3 days at Stockdale. He was married to Martha Sampson June 15, 1882. Eight children were born to this union two dying in infancy. The widow and six children survive as follows: Mrs. Wm. Horton and Mrs. Will Givens of Beaver, Mrs. Geo. Hunter and Mrs. Dale Burgess of Minford and Charles and Violet at home and twelve grand children. He was a member of the M. E. church and a charter member of the Junior Lodge of Stockdale. One of nature's noblemen has gone to his reward. The surviving relatives and friends and neighbors among whom he lived, know the story of his beautiful life of kindness, generosity and helpfulness to those around him.

His home was home to all that entered his door and the great day that shall reveal all things alone will make known the extent of his ministrations.

Children instinctively loved and trusted him and he was never happier than when the baby fingers clasped his or the little feet toddled after him. Loving children and youth he treasured too busy or too tired to be with in these moments or to guide with friendly counsel. Realizing his rapidly failing health he said he was ready to go and death came gently as he slept.

Life's work well done. Life's race well run. Life's crown well won. Now comes rest.

Funeral of Mrs. Taylor

THEATRICAL

"SALLY, IRENE AND MOLLY" AT THE SUN TUESDAY

The average musical comedy falls short of the mark. There is always something wrong. If the music is good, the music is not good enough, or the cast unable to do justice to it. However, in "Sally, Irene and Molly" which is scheduled for a presentation at the Sun next Tuesday matinee and night everything is as it should be and the credit for that belongs to Mr. Lloyd Johnson, managing director of the Equitable Company, Inc., under whose direction the American production is made. Mr. Johnson fully realized that "Sally, Irene and Molly" would have to be done on a new and grand scale. He has shown that this production which sets a new record in musical comedy is getting more particular in their demands for entertainment. They must keep pace with the times in theatrical production. If you are to succeed, such a production as "Sally, Irene and Molly" makes the standards of the average musical comedy seem cheap and awfully old. Sunday 10 a. m.

HUNTINGTON—Mayor Chapman is to touch the match to a thousand-dollar bonfire in the near future. The fire will not assume large proportions. Two roulette wheels, captured recently by police in alleged gambling places, one worth $600, and the other, $400, are to form the material for the blaze.

The earliest lottery of which there is any authentic record was held in Pruges in 1446.

Family Away; Bad Fire Visits Home

The companies from two fire stations responded to an alarm shortly before 3 a. m. Saturday and made runs to the home of Clarus Wood, contractor and builder, 1708 Jackson street, to fight a blaze which started from an unknown origin under the kitchen floor.

The Wood family was not at home having left yesterday afternoon for Grayson, Ky., by motor on a visit over the week end with relatives and the fire, which was burning briskly, was discovered by neighbors who sounded the alarm. The firemen experienced considerable difficulty in getting the flames under control but confined the fire to the kitchen although the intense heat damaged furniture, including a piano, in other rooms of the dwelling. The damage was estimated at $12,000.

Will Hurn, a relative, left early today for Kentucky to advise the Wood family of the fire.

Piketon Man Caught In Cave-In; Dies

PIKETON, Nov. 11.—Caught by a cave-in of a gravel bank Walter Adams 29, of Happy Hollow, two miles east of here, was instantly killed Friday afternoon. His body was buried under twelve feet of gravel and dirt and was found sometime later by Jesse McFarland of the State Highway Patrol who was hauling gravel from the same bank. He saw Adams' team in the gravel pit and the large pile of gravel and at once started to dig the gravel away with his hands to see if Adams was buried. Within a short time he uncovered the body. Elmer Baker driver, arriving in time to assist McFarland in removing it.

At the Gehres undertaking establishment in Waverly, Dr. L. L. Willis examined the body and found that Adams had suffered a broken neck, broken right leg, left ear almost torn off and face badly cut. Death must have been instantaneous. There were no witnesses to the fatality and it is thought that Adams probably was stooping over shoveling gravel when the cave-in engulfed him.

Adams was a son of Marving Adams of Happy Hollow and had been hauling gravel for the Anderson-Brown firm, contractors on the improvement of the road between Piketon and Waverly for sometime. He was well known in and near here.

Ohio River Cities Would Be Hit

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 11.—Testimony showing in effect that the proposed new through freight rates from points in the central freight association territory to Southern points would work to the detriment of the Ohio river cities which are opposing the through rates, was offered today by A. F. Vandegrift, traffic manager of the board of trade, Louisville, at the second day of the hearings here on the Southeastern rate case being conducted by the Interstate Commission.

The hearing involves the readjustment of all class rates in Southern territory, which would affect seriously Ohio river cities, Southern manufacturers and railroads and to a great extent, it was said, injure their business with New York and New England manufacturers.

Under railroad proposal the through traffic will move under Southern classification, while Ohio river cities will have to pay on the higher official classification into their cities. This it was pointed out would be a serious handicap to the manufacturers and wholesalers of Ohio river cities.

Mr. Vandegrift testified that the method proposed by him was now used in roads in constructing rates from the East to the West.

Democrats Urged To Be Militantly Liberal Party

CLINTON, MASS., Nov. 11.—Senator David I. Walsh, as chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee in a statement today said that the election on Tuesday was not so much a Democratic victory as a rebuke "to stand pat and retrogressive forces may in control of the national policy."

"I am inclined," he said, "to regard the result of Tuesday's election as somewhat in the nature of a passive political revolution. It indicates widespread dissatisfaction and discontent expressed by the electorate against the only agency in their government which they could protest, the present administration."

"The people have emphatically rejected the promises bestowal of subsidies and bounties through tariff protection to the few at the expense of the many; a post-bellum tax program which shifts tax burdens from big business to small business and from the wealthy to the impoverished."

"In many eastern states and indeed to a considerable extent throughout the middlewest there seems to be a marked tendency to resent the restriction of personal liberty which the Volstead act imposes."

"I hope in view of the election that the Democratic party may become the militantly liberal party so that we shall have a strong conservative and a strong liberal party rather than two parties which the people unfortunately are inclined to believe merely to have different degrees of conservatism."

New Glory

of honor, the highest American recognition of valor by Major General Henry T. Allen, commanding American forces in Germany, and specially ordered to Brussels for the purpose.

"By virtue of the authority bestowed by law in the president of the United States, the congressional medal of honor, emblem of the highest military ideals and virtues, is bestowed in the name of the congress of the United States upon the unknown, unidentified Belgian soldier in a desire to add all that is possible to the imperishable glory won by the soldiers of Belgium who fought as comrades of the American soldiers during the world war." At the right American emblems in France, Belgium and England, there remain the bodies of 30,363 soldiers, sailors and marines who gave their lives during the war. At each of these appropriate services were held throughout the day with American diplomatic or military and naval officials paying tribute. At home in the national cemeteries in New York and San Francisco, and at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, where many war dead from France are buried, there also were public expressions during the day.

America's tribute to its victorious soldier was paid through President Harding today with a simplicity strikingly at variance with the splendid ritual of honors that marked his home coming a year ago.

Today there was no spoken word to stir echoes of the solemn chords and expressions of high resolve a year ago that still must linger amid the marble arches of Arlington memorial amphitheatre, where the honored dead keeps vigil.

A distant thudding of saluting cannon, the ring of shod hoofs on the hard roadway, a low committal, a stilled flourish of trumpets as rifles tapped up to present, and the president had come to place a wreath upon the soldier's tomb and gaze again almost before the few hundreds who awaited him, realized that the ceremony had begun.

On the terrace facing down over the hazy-shrouded river and the city beyond a thin line of comrades soldiers, sailors and Marines was drawn up facing toward the great white block of stone that marks the resting place of the unknown.

Groped over the wide steps beyond that lead up to the entrance to the amphitheatre, the few hundred who had come to share in the honors to the dead, had found their place. Two score of Boy Scouts also had trudged over from the capital and were drawn up beside the way the president would pass.

The far rumble of a gun brought the soldiers to attention. The president was passing through Fort Myer over the road on his way to the cemetery. One by one the flanking echoes counted out the roll of twenty-one guns of the national salute. Then again there was stillness until the clatter of hoofs told that the cavalry escort and the little string of official cars was drawing near.

The troopers turned aside to sit with sabres at present as the president's car rolled on toward the terrace. The bugles of the Boy Scouts called softly the flourishes army regulations prescribe for the commander-in-chief. Then the car turned the corner cut into the wide terrace and stopped near the tomb.

President Harding and Secretaries Weeks and Daugherty stepped to the stand with heads bowed while the soldiers and sailors and Marines presented arms. Behind them were the president's military and naval and Marine Corps aides, resplendent in the gold braid of full military dress. Major General Harbord, as General Pershing's deputy, also had come to honor a dead comrade again. The president stepped forward, bareheaded and took from his military aide the great wreath of red, white and blue blossoms, brought from the White House. The two secretaries stood, hat in hand, as he walked to the great stone and set the wreath gently against it. As he drew back to pause a moment, looking down at the tomb, he slowly raised his hand in military salute. Then he turned away.

No word had been spoken save the military command. Even the signals that brought the cars rolling back, were given by gesture and there was not a sound from the hundreds gathered to witness the brief ceremony.

Mr. Harding and his cabinet men, best stood in low formal talk as they waited for the cars. Then with a final salute from the troops, they rolled away and the dying clatter of the cavalry escort left the spectators to drift slowly homeward, and the unknown to the keeping of the peaceful hills about him.

TRONTON, Nov. 11.—(Special to The Times).—The body of Beecher Walker, wealthy farmer of Chilton, just south of Russell, Ky., was found today lying in the rear of a soft drink saloon at Third and Lawrence streets. The corpse was found at 5:30 this morning by Shu Hamilton, and the police believe Walker was the victim of foul play. A small amount of change was found on the sidewalk about ten feet from the dead man, and thirty dollars, which he was known to have had on his person as late as 11 o'clock last night, was missing. Officials are seeking his slayer. When found, blood was running from the man's mouth, and a mark was on the back of his neck. No other marks were upon the body. Walker had been dead several hours when he was found.

He was a widower, and is survived by two daughters, Miss Virginia Walker, at home and Mrs. John Colton of Russell and several brothers and sisters.

Officials are of the opinion that Walker was slain elsewhere and the body carried to the spot where it was found, as his overcoat was spread over him.

The Sunday school calls for all its forces, and presents such a stirring subject as "How to Live With Others." Luke 6:27-38. Every teacher who knows they will be absent from their class should notify the superintendent or his assistant.
At the morning worship the pastor will preach upon "The Victory and Then the Program." The chorus will sing "Praise Ye the Lord" by Stult.
The Epworth League will resume its meetings at 6:15 p. m. and the topic will be "What Jesus Has Done for Me." The League needs the young people and it is the training school for them. Many people think they are too old to attend, and others think they are too young; both are wrong. Even the Sunday school does not have as good a plan for the study of the Bible as the Epworth League.
The evening service at 7:00 p. m. invites all who were present in the morning, and strangers. The pastor will speak briefly upon "The Cross as the Measure of the World." The anthem will be "Holy Ghost, With Light Divine" by Camp.
Mr. Elmer S. Ende has begun the direction of our chorus and though his presence cannot be had at the services, he will be most valuable in the rehearsals. All the chorists should get acquainted with Mr. Ende and share his spirit in the interpretation of sacred music.
The public is cordially invited to these services.

Edwards To Speak
N. D. Edwards will speak in the Public Library Auditorium Sunday evening at 7:30.
This will be the fifth Bible lecture of the series of thirteen lectures. Topic: "Man Redeemed." Eph. 1:4. The possessions which Christ purchased by the sacrifice for sin as man's substitute includes mankind in general or so many as will accept the favor on the gospel conditions, as well as the church, the bride. The time for the deliverance is in the Millennium and the church is to be delivered first—"early in the morning." But the earth was part of man's original estate and was purchased by the same sacrifice once for all; hence it too is to be delivered from its share of the curse and shall become as the garden of the Lord—"Paradise." The purchase is accomplished but the deliverance waits for God's "due time."

ONE WAY OF DOING IT

Miss Dolly Wise

See to it here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, wages, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Is there any law in the state of Ohio that would prosecute any one or any organization that would exact from any candidate for office a promise to do certain things on his or her being promised election to office? Under what statute could you prosecute? Why is it that the so-called Christians will violate one of the fundamental laws of our constitution when they vote against a candidate on account of his or her church affiliations?

It depends on what the promise was exacted. There are certain things that would come under the corrupt practice act, but I would have to know what they are before I could pass upon them. If you will read Sec. 5175 of the General Code you will find this act fully explained. It is very wise on the part of candidates to make any pre-election promises. I can't answer for so-called Christians. We always have had people like that in the world and I suppose we always will have them.

Dear Dolly—I wish you would tell me something to use for perspiration color, to use under the arms. I have tried shields and they do not have the desired effect, and I have also tried the various preparations on the market for this purpose, with unsatisfactory results. I perspire so profusely that I rub all my wrists and dresses. There is also an unpleasant odor that I would like to get rid of. TIMES READER.

Place about two table spoonfuls of compound spirits of ammonia in a basin of water and bathe the arm pits with it. This wash is perfectly harmless, and quite satisfactory.

Dear Dolly—As this is first time to write you, can you give me the address of some factory in Indiana in which a girl can get work.

THANK YOU.

There are thousands of factories in Indiana, but since I do not know what you can do, or where you want to go, I cannot tell you much. However, you will find factories in all the large cities and in some of the smaller ones.

Fullerton, Ky., Dear Miss Wise—As you have helped so many others I wish you would help me. I am a boy of 17 and in love with a girl. I take her home from church but never make any date with her. What would you say to make a date?

COLLISH LAD.

I would advise you to be careful of the "boogie-man" will get you. However if you really want a date with the girl you might ask her to take a stroll in the moonlight, or sit on a log and watch the fog rise or the river fall. That's about the only exciting thing there is to do over in Fullerton.

NEW BOSTON READER—Report them to Mayor Newberry. I think he can make them "toe the mark" if any body can.

MARGE—New Boston—I don't print answers to questions like the one you wrote me, but if you will call me up on 840 I shall be glad to give you the desired information.

Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me the shortest and best route from Portsmouth to Cincinnati, by auto?

TIMES READER.

Perhaps the best route is via Chillicothe, Bainbridge, Hillsboro, Fayetteville, Marathon, Owensville, Portown, Milford, Madisonville, Oakley. Keep on the Madison road until you come to St. Francis De Sales church, turn to your left on Woodburn, to your right on McMillan avenue, thence to your left on Park and go down through Eden Park onto Gilbert avenue to the Baldwin Piano Company, then turn to your left over Gilbert viaduct onto Eighth street, and there you are in the Queen City. Watch your step and don't get run over or lost in a big city. The distance over this route is 125 miles.

California Goes Dry By Act Of Voters; Ends Ten Year Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., Nov. 11.—By the Associated Press.—California, the leading wine grape growing state in the Union and which once had hopes of competing with the champagne of France and the Rhine wines of Germany, has at last gone dry after ten years of voting down prohibition measures.

A majority of 216,211 in favor of making the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States and the Volstead act statute law of California stood tonight with only scattering precincts to be heard from, so that there appeared no possibility of the final total being against the enforcement of prohibition.

The new law provides for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act by prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, grand juries, magistrates and peace officers.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

JACK O'LANTEEN did not have Mother Goose's broom—or brown-stick. I should say—after all.

He was greatly relieved to find that his stick of a body had not been stolen from the fairy lady who swept the sky.

"It's bad enough to have to spend the rest of one's days leaning up against a barn," said Jack, "but it would be worse to go to jail."

Suddenly he found the words left his mouth when the farmer's head came out and lifted off Jack's head and set it on the ground. Then she walked back to the house with the broomstick in her hand.

"This is a fine stick for beating carpets," she said. "Much too useful to be wasted on a silly pumpkin."

By this time Nancy and Nick were far down the road in their magic Green Shoes. And you'll never guess where they were going.

"They were hunting for Snow Man, and Snow Man was a long way off up on a mountain."

They asked some chickadees if they had seen Snow Man, and the chickadees had. They told the Twins where to find him.

"He's standing in front of the wood-chopper's house and he's got on red mittens and a muffler and a butter bowl for a hat, and stones for eyes and he has an old pipe in his mouth," said the chickadees. "And he's got a broomstick over his shoulder for a gun."

"That's the very person we are looking for," said Nick positively to Nancy. "Perhaps his gun is Mother Goose's broomstick."

The Twins thanked the little gray birds and hurried on.

School Board Passes Up Special School For Crippled Children; New Teacher Is Engaged

On a report submitted by Superintendent Frank Appel in which he stated there would be only a very small number to benefit by a special school for crippled children, an idea suggested by the Rotary Club, the Board of Education last night decided not to start such a school at this time during this session. C. H. Brochner of Warsaw, Ind., was elected as teacher in the high school to succeed Dan Fries, resigned, the matter of engaging a school physician was discussed and a contract was awarded for considerable playground equipment.

The action taken on the crippled children school question came about after Superintendent Frank Appel had submitted a detailed report of a complete survey of the situation and a thorough investigation which had been conducted. There are at present twenty-five crippled children in the city and the majority of these are attending the local high and elementary schools.

Only four of these would apparently be benefited by attendance at a special institution and these four are mentally deficient the report showed. It was the opinion of Mr. Appel and the sentiment was voiced by all members of the board, that as long as the regular public schools were progressing satisfactorily and that they were having and continuing, it would be unwise to place a child physically deficient but mentally normal with a class of mental inferiors.

The members thought that such action would darken the outlook of the average crippled life, entail much expense, and accomplish nothing in a way of universal satisfaction. The State of Ohio agrees to reimburse any school board which establishes a school for crippled in a certain limited amount, with the understanding that such a school must have an enrollment of eight or more pupils. Since there are only four children, both crippled and feeble minded in the city who would be in any way benefited, according to a study and compilation made by Miss Myrtle Kepler, school nurse, it would in a two-fold way be better to give these few abnormal cases individual medical attention, rather than to attempt the organization of a separate school for the few. Superintendent Appel was advised by the President to draw up a tabulated report for submission to the Rotary Club that this society may thoroughly understand and not mistake in any way the decision of the Board.

Eccles To Coach Team.

A letter was read by the clerk in which Daniel Fries, formerly athletic and manual training instructor of the High School, spoke of his thankfulness for the prompt action of the Board in accepting his resignation. He said that it will be necessary for him to leave the city not later than November 12 on account of new business connections. Upon the recommendation of Superintendent Frank Appel, C. H. Brochner of Warsaw, Indiana, was engaged to teach the machine shop and mechanical drawing classes at a salary of twenty-four hundred dollars per year. Mr. Brochner is a graduate of the Universities of Indiana and Michigan and has had much experience in his line. He was an instructor in the technical school at Cleveland for seven years. He will begin his duties at P. H. S. Monday morning.

Henry H. Eccles will continue to coach the local high school football squad until the close of the season, and when basketball time arrives further arrangements will be made.

Discuss Question of Physician.

The advisability of the appointment of a salaried physician to look after students attending the Portsmouth schools was discussed at some length but no action was taken either pro or con. The matter will probably be brought up for further consideration at a later date.

The request of S. O. Cook, photographer, that he be allowed the permission to make a series of pictures of the various classes of school children during the school year, was granted when the city was granted.

Playground Equipment Bought.

Charles B. Hoppes, vice-president and representative of the Peewee Manufacturing Co. of Springfield Illinois, was present at the meeting last evening and the contract for playground equipment was awarded to his concern, it having submitted the lowest bid. The cost of the equipment is $1,612.92. It will include a number of reeler totters, swings, giant slides, sliding boards, swing sets, seesaw outfits, dumbbells, Indian clubs, etc.

No action was taken on the complaint filed by Frank J. Baker, local shoe man, who says that his front street property is menaced in a financial way by the boys playing in the backyard of the Massie street building.

Superintendent of Buildings, Walter Koenig, advised the installation of a double service water pipe in the High School and the "Red Building". The request of the High School Scouts for use of the High School auditorium on the nights of December 20 and 21 was laid aside for action at the next meeting.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

IN Morocco the daughters of a family are supposed to marry in the order of their ages, and this is usually easy since the father arranges the marriages to suit his own ideas.

If, for any reason the order is reversed, the older daughters are not permitted to attend the wedding celebration of the younger sister if they are unmarried.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

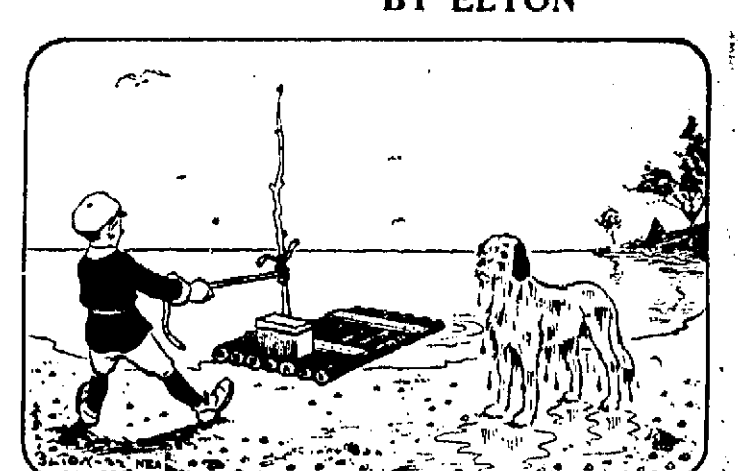

Now gulls were hovering over the little raft. As one of them swooped down, Flip barked and woke Jack up. The raft was standing almost still. The fish that had been pulling it had broken the line and was gone. In the distance Jack saw a beautiful white island.

Go, but I would like to land here, thought Jack. He dropped a line to see how deep the water was. "Way over my head," said Jack. "Come on, Flip, pull the raft to shore." Flip seemed to understand, for he jumped in the water and grabbed hold of the broken line. The raft moved.

After about half an hour of work Flip succeeded in getting the raft close enough so that Jack could wade. Then the young adventurer and his dog pulled their sent boat high up on land. This is a pretty place, thought Jack. Wonder who lives here. (Continued).

Agricultural Notes

EDITORIAL NOTE—The Times has arranged for an agricultural department in each issue of The Saturday Times. The articles will be written by an expert and we unhesitatingly advise their careful reading. They may be of great profit to you.

Farmers' Institute—The first farmers' institute to be held in the county this year will be at Sunshine Grange Hall next Friday and Saturday, November 17th and 18th, with Geo. S. Lentz, St. Clairsville, Belmont Co., Ohio, and Miss Nellie Woods, Greensburg, Pa., as state speakers.

Among the local people who will be in discussing the subjects presented by the state speakers will be Mrs. T. E. Kent, Messrs. D. M. Bennett and Wiley Burton, and county agent W. J. Gahan.

The state speakers come highly recommended. Geo. S. Lentz is a veteran institute lecturer and speaks out of an experience of 40 years of successful farming and 25 years official connection with township and county affairs.

Miss Nellie Woods is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and of Ohio State University in Home Economics. She has also taken advanced work at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia. She has had long experience in institute work in this and other states. She will speak both days of the institute.

A feature of the institute will be an exhibit of corn for men and boys and a bread-baking contest for women and girls. Prizes are offered for the best ear of corn and the best loaf of bread, both yellow and white. Prizes are also offered for the best loaf of bread baked and exhibited by the girls of the community, and another class is open to women for the best loaf of bread.

It is expected that everybody in the community will assist in making this a successful institute by exhibiting in one of the above mentioned classes. All exhibits must be in place by 12 o'clock the first day of the institute.

Another important feature of the institute is the declaration contest Friday morning, the 17th, in charge of J. O. Allen of Minford. This session will be known as the "school" session, and the speakers will present messages of interest to both young and old.

It is insisted by the committee that everybody bring their lunch and stay all day. Coffee will be served by the committee. Officers of the institute are F. C. White, president; G. A. Shumway, secretary and Mrs. Chas. Holt, lady correspondent.

Breeders' Association Meet.

A meeting of the Scioto County Purebred Breeders' Association will be held at the Farm Bureau office Saturday evening November 18th, 7 p. m. The purpose of this meeting is to formulate plans for the coming year's work of the association in the improvement of live stock in the county. It is expected that Paul Gerlaugh, specialist in Animal Husbandry, Ohio State University, will be present. President M. J. Caldwell and Secretary E. C. Moulton are desirous of having every breeder of purebred live stock in the county present at this meeting and extend an urgent invitation to all.

Pictorial Demonstration Successful.

Another favorable report comes from the Farm Bureau office from Jacob

Rose of Vernon township in potato fertilizing and spraying demonstrations, he having received an increase of 22 bushels to the acre by the use of a 4-10-4 fertilizer, mixed by himself, over an unfertilized plot. He also secured an increase of 30 bushels per acre of sprayed potatoes over the unsprayed. Mr. Rose had another demonstration in which he compared certified northern grown seed, which he secured through the Farm Bureau, with home grown seed. His yield per acre from the northern certified seed, sprayed and fertilized, was 274-4-5 bushels, while that of the home grown seed, sprayed and fertilized, was 189-4-5 bushels, giving an increase of 85 bushels per acre. Mr. Rose states that the potatoes from the northern certified seed were of much better quality than from the home grown seed.

This is perhaps one of the largest increases known in the county, but it is not an uncommon thing to have reports come to the Farm Bureau of an increase of 25 to 50 bushels per acre by the use of northern certified seed. Complete detailed reports of the results of all demonstrations in potato production in the way of spraying and fertilizing and northern grown certified seed will be given out by the Farm Bureau office at a later date. Eighteen hundred bushels of certified seed was distributed by the Farm Bureau, through the Scioto Live Stock Co., last spring. All indications are that there will be a larger demand for certified seed next spring than ever before.

Expresses Thanks In Letter

Adam Frick, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who was elected state representative at Tuesday's election, is sending out letters to C. A. Lyles, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, and a

Harper And Ruel Complete Paving; Open In 10 Days

Contractors Harper and Ruel have finished their contract of paving approximately three miles of the Portsmouth-Jackson road from the Lawrence county line approximately three miles west, and it was stated Saturday that the new roadway will be opened for travel at the end of another week.

This leaves a gap of unimproved highway of a little over three miles extending from the end of the new paving west, and while the contract has been let, the work on it will probably not start until early next Spring.

The unimproved portion of the road is in fair condition for travel and this situation will obtain as long as good weather prevails, but with the coming of winter rains it will be necessary for travelers to use the detour which turns to the left at Franklin Furnace. Until then motorists are urged to go straight through and get the benefit of the new paving.

Red Men Hold District Meet Here

Boy Ingemann was given the adoption and warriors degree; J. C. Clark and J. C. Brown of Wakefield, and Senator-elect Jenkins were the other candidates.

Officials present were: Great Sachem E. C. Wilcox, of Dayton, and District Chief Andy Fisher of Ironton.

BUILDS NEW STRENGTH AND REAL FLESH

NO. 100

RELIABILITY FIRST OF ALL

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
©1922 GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Through the Adirondack forests rages a savage battle for possession of the flaming jewel, originally stolen from the refugee COUNTESS, THEODORICA of Esthonia by the great international thief.

QUINTANA. In Paris, Quintana was robbed of the gem by MIKE CLINCH, an American soldier, who brought the gem back to the disreputable hunting camp where he lived a life of crime ever since his legitimate business of guiding hunting parties had been destroyed years ago by the uncle of JAMES DARRAGH. Darragh, going as Hal Smith, loves the countess and has sworn to restore the jewel to her.

CLINCH is passionately fighting for the jewel as it represents the sole means of giving his beautiful step-daughter, EVE STRAYER, the "education of a lady."

Eve and her lover, TROOPER STORMONT, escape from Quintana, who with his gang has come to the camp to regain the jewel. Eve swims Star Pond with what she believes to be the real jewels in her mouth. Darragh takes what Eve thought was an empty jewel case from Quintana and finds the real jewels in a false bottom. Darragh learns that the countess and her companion are about to arrive at his hunting lodge.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

STORMONT followed, entered CLINCH's quarters, and presently came downstairs again, carrying CLINCH's snow-shoes and a basket pack.

He seated himself near Darragh. After a silence: "Your wife is beautiful. Jim. . . Her character seems to be even more beautiful. . . She's like God's own messenger to Eve. . . And you're rather wonderful yourself."

"Nonsense," said Darragh, "I've given my wife her first American friend and I've done a shrewd stroke of business in nabbing the best business associates I ever heard of."

"You're crazy but kind. . . I hope I'll be some good. . . One thing: I'll never get over what you've done for Eve in this crisis."

"There'll be no crisis, Jack. Marry and look up with me in business. That solves everything. . . Lord!—what a life Eve has had! But you'll make it all up to her. . . all this loneliness and shame and misery of CLINCH's Dump."

Stormont touched his arm in caution: Eve and Rieca came down the stairs—the former now in gray wool snowshoe dress, and carrying her snowshoes, black gown, and toilet articles.

Stormont began to stow away her effects in the basket pack; Darragh went over to her and took her hand. "I'm so glad we are to be friends," he said, "it hurt a lot to know you held me in contempt. But I had to go about it that way."

Eve nodded. Then, suddenly reddening, "I forgot the jewel case! It's under my pillow."

She turned and sped upstairs and reappeared almost instantly, carrying the jewel case.

Breathless, flushed, thankful and happy in the excitement of restitution, she placed the leather case in Rieca's hands.

"My jewels!" cried the girl, astounded. Then, with a little cry of delight, she placed the case upon the table, stripped open the emblazoned cover, and emptied the two trays. All over the table rolled the jewels, flashing, scintillating, ablaze with blinding light.

And at the same instant the outer door crashed open and Quintana covered them with Darragh's rifle. "Now, by Christ!" he shouted, "who stirs a finger shall go to God in one jump! You, my goddamne friend—your friend! Smith—turn your damn back! hand's up high!—that's the way! now, ladies!—back away there! get back or I kill!—sure, by Jesus, I kill you like I would some white little mice!"

With incredible quickness he stepped forward and swept the jewels into one hand—filled the pocket of his trousers, caught up every stray stone and pocketed them.

"You goddamne," he cried in a menacing voice, "you think you shall follow in my track. Yes? I blow your damn head off if you stir before the hour. . . After that—well, follow and be damn!"

Even as he spoke he stepped outside and slammed the door; and Darragh and Stormont leaped for it. Then the loud detonation of Quintana's rifle was echoed by the splintering of bullets tearing through the closed door; and both men halted in the face of sudden hail.

Eve ran to the pantry window and saw Quintana in somebody's stolen lumber-sledge, lash a big pair of horses to a gallop and go floundering past into the Ghost Lake road.

As he sped by in a whirl of snow he fired five times at the house, then, rising and swinging his whip, he begged the frantic horses into the woods.

In the dining room, Stormont, not with rage and shame, and having found his rifle in the corridor outside Eve's bedroom, was trying to open the shutters for a shot; and Darragh, empty-handed, searched the house frantically for a weapon.

As their eyes met both remembered. Then she smiled at her lover with the shy girl's soul of her gazing out at him through eyes as blue as the wild blind-gentians that grow among the ferns and mosses of Star Pond.

Far away in the northwestern forests Quintana still lashed his horses through the primeval pines. Triumphant, reckless, resourceful, dangerous, he felt that now nothing could stop him, nothing bar his way to freedom.

Out of the wilderness lay his road and his destiny: out of it he must win his way, by strategy, by cunning, by violence—creep out, lie his way out, shoot his way out—it scarcely mattered. He was going out! He was going back to life once more, who could forbid him? Who stop him? Who deny him? now, when, in his pockets, he held all that was worth living for—the keys to power, to pleasure—the key to everything on earth!

In fierce exultation he slipped the glass jewels in his pocket and laughed aloud.

"The keys to the world!" he cried "Let him stop me and take them who is a better man than I!" Then his long whip whistled and he cursed his horses.

Then of a sudden, close by in the snowy road ahead, he saw a State Trooper on snow-shoes—saw the up-flung arm warning him—screamed curses at his horses, flugged them forward to crush this thing to death that dared menace him—this object that suddenly rose out of nowhere to snatch from him the keys of the world—

For a moment the State Trooper looked after the runaway horses. There was no use following; they'd have to run till they dropped.

Then he lowered the leveled rifle from his shoulder, looked grimly at the limp thing which had tumbled from the sledge into the snowy road, and which sprawled there crimsoning the spotless flakes that fell upon it.

Mr. Tyne's resignation takes effect today, and he leaves now and December first, Miss Bannon expects to rearrange the bookings and make a number of changes to go into effect with her assumption of active management December first.

Miss Bannon has had a wide experience in business affairs and undoubtedly the Lyric, under her management, will prosper as never before. For the present Miss Bannon declined to discuss her plans, but stated she hoped to give to the public the highest class films on the market.

FATHER AND SON BOTH RESTORED BY TANLAC

"Tanlac certainly gives a lot for the money," said W. E. Reese, well known grocer of 313 N. College St., Carlisle, Pa.

"Following a bad case of the I found myself in such a weak, nervous, run-down condition I could hardly attend to business. I was in this shape a year and could make no headway toward getting back my strength. My stomach was all out of order, I had no appetite and weighed only a hundred and twenty-two pounds.

"A few bottles of Tanlac gave me complete health with a gain of thirteen pounds. I also have a twelve-year old son in school who had a nervous trouble and was in very bad shape. Soon after starting him on Tanlac his troubles disappeared and he also gained ten or twelve pounds. Tanlac certainly gives the desired results."

Dry Majority In Adams County Is 4,363

MANCHESTER, Nov. 11.—The official dry majority in Adams County was 4,363, John Caskins, Democrat, has a majority of 11 for County Recorder. M. F. Hooper, Republican candidate for commissioner, has a majority of 189.

The 2-mill road levy lost in the county.

The $40,000 bond issue for school building at West Union carried by 70.

Party Ratio On Committees To Be Changed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—By cutting down the Republican majority in the House, Democrats in the next Congress will obtain larger representation on all of the big committees, by which the most important legislation is formed. Leaders of both parties are figuring on the new question.

As it now stands, the Ways and Means Committee which reported the revenue, tariff and bonus bills, consists of 25 members—17 Republicans and 8 Democrats. As the lineup is determined by the size of the House majority, Democrats, it was said, will insist upon a division of 11 to 14.

Retirement of Chairman Fordney means that Representative Greene, Iowa, ranking Republican will become chairman under the seniority rule system.

Because of the large number of subcommittees which prepare the supply bills, the Appropriation Committee, consisting of 23 Republicans and 12 Democrats, is expected to stand at about that ratio. But all committees now composed of 15 Republicans and six Democrats, probably will go on a 12 to 9 footing. The Rules Committee, all powerful of itself, generally stands 8 to 4, regardless of majority.

Defeat of Chairman Volstead of the Judiciary Committee, will make Representative Graham, Pennsylvania, chairman. All bills relating to prohibition are considered by the Judiciary Committee. Mr. Graham was among the few members who refused to vote one way or the other when the Volstead bill was up for passage some years ago.

Under the seniority rule, Representative Snell of New York will be head of the rules committee, succeeding Mr. Fordney.

Centre Holds Unique Record Against Harvard

Even if Centre College is slumped off the Harvard schedule next year the little southern institution feels that it has established a record against the Crimson that will stand for a long time.

Centre has met Harvard for three consecutive years on the Harvard field. Centre won one game and lost two, but in each game managed to cross the Harvard goal line.

In 1920 Centre was beaten, 20 to 11, after holding Harvard on even terms until near the close of the game, when lack of reserves turned the tide of victory to Harvard.

Centre's great showing in that game led to a return engagement. In its second chance at Harvard Centre emerged the victor by the scant margin of 6 to 0. "Bo" McMillin made the winning touchdown.

This year, after getting a bad break in the opening period, when Harvard scored three times, Centre outplayed the Crimson the rest of the game, losing 24 to 10.

Four colleges in three consecutive meetings on the Harvard field can claim one victory and the crossing of the Harvard line one or more times in each game. It is a record of which little Centre may well feel proud.

Wellston high's eleven won from New Boston at Wellston Friday afternoon by a score of 38 to 0 the same score that Oak Hill beat New Boston. Wellston has a heavy and well organized team and easily broke through the light New Boston team who could not get within striking distance of the Wellston goal.

Twenty-four Years Ago

Samuel Funk, one of the best known citizens of the city, answered the final summons of death. He was 65 years old and spent his entire life in this city where he was born in 1838, near where is now the corner of Jackson street and Campbell avenue, near the month of the branch that derived its name from the Funk family. Mr. Funk was a contractor and an injury he sustained in a fall against a gas pipe on Gallia street, hastened his death.

Students Warned To End "Strike" At Chillicothe

CHILICOTHE, O., Nov. 11.—Acting on orders received today from Col. C. R. Forbes, Washington, director of the Veterans Bureau, President E. Dexter, of the United States Vocational School No. 1, here notified students who went on "strike" several days ago that unless they resumed training at once their names would be removed from the training payroll.

Colonel Forbes also ordered that the strikers be dropped from training to compensation status as long as they are absent. This means a reduction in pay of from $100 to $37.5 a month to from $7.00 to $50.

Figures compiled today show that 237 of the 472 students are on "strike." The men left their training when rent on their quarters was raised ten dollars to $22 a month. The increase was for fuel during the winter months, some of the students having voted to accept the offer.

Today's ruling is that students must pay the full cost of the quarters.

E. O. Hobbs, Cincinnati, member of the American Legion committee on rehabilitation for Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky arrived today to investigate the controversy.

ON this Armistice Day, November 11, the war has been over for four years. It is almost startling, that so much time has elapsed since the German surrender, 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

Time, which heals all wounds and obliterates all human activities, is rushing the great conflict into the mists of memory. The world still ferments with troubles, but the outlook as a whole is far better than it was a year ago. There are fewer uncertainties in the situation, and it is becoming obvious that the world is definitely on the way back to the normal conditions of peace. The road, however, will be a long one.

Crises, which threaten to become calamities, still rear their ugly heads periodically. But people are noticing that these crises never turn out as badly as expected; the clouds are more terrifying than the storms that follow.

America is leading all other countries in reconstruction and a return to sane thinking—common sense. We have taken and withstood the shock of industrial depression, natural reaction of the war. Our outlook is bright, where a year ago it was uncertain.

Europe will be slower to recover, for its damage was greater. But conditions over there, while bad, are far better than even the most optimistic hoped for when the last shot was fired in France.

Convalescence from a critical illness requires time, cannot take place quickly by magic. That is the keynote of the European situation, this Armistice Day.

SOMEWHAT OF A DIFFERENCE

THE propositions to levy taxes to construct a new court house and permanent bonds both carried by ample majorities, furnished in the one instance entirely by the city and the other nearly so.

It was not expected the rural precincts would favor a new court house, but the adverse vote there against was not as heavy as it was expected to be. Indeed, considering the country usually stands overwhelmingly against such proposals the new court house did quite well out there.

Of course, it was a mistake to assume a decent public building is solely a city affair because it is to be built therein. The city doesn't need a new court house as much as does the whole county generally and the rural portion particularly. By far more country people have business there than do townsmen and they are the chief victims of the ill provision of the present shack.

Permanent roads are of much more direct benefit to the outside county than they are to the city and it is well for their continued construction that city people did not assume the attitude towards roads that country people assumed towards a new court house. Had they there would be precious few good highways laid in Scioto county for many years to come. Portsmouth pays about three-fourths of the special road tax, which has now been levied for ten years. Not a dollar thereof has ever been spent in the city and it isn't at all likely any will be, but, at that she gave ten times the majority for the special road levy that the county did.

This, however, is history, somewhat ancient already, for the election is past and already quite forgot.

The thing to rejoice over is that Scioto is going to maintain to a higher degree the reputation of being the best road county in Southern Ohio and before two years are gone she will no longer suffer scorn and reproach because she has the meanest court house in the state, but will take her place as a county that has self respect enough to put on a fair front.

AS FAR AS HE IS GONE

TUESDAY, November 7th, was a bad day for "standing by the President," it was a day of gloom and anguish to those candidates upon whom he smiled his warmest.

It was dinged dinged from every rostrum and G. O. P. organ, in Ohio, that Carmi Thompson had a reserved place right up by the great white throne at Washington and he was a special and exceptional friend of Harding. What that rude Vice Donahay did to him was a plenty.

Then there was Frelinghuysen who was yet a little more special than Thompson, as was one of Warren's boon companions. They beat him so badly in New Jersey that it has not been deemed interesting to count the few votes he got.

Other victims of the President's distinguished consideration were Poindexter and Kellogg who could be relied upon to keep the alleged progressives from straying too far off the reservation.

While among the also missing is Mondell, mouthpiece of the administration on the floor of the house.

Ah, even Lodge, who is accredited with being the brains of the whole works, had a narrow squeak, creeping back with a few paltry hundreds.

Yes, brethren, it was a sorrowful day, but not so bad as it ought to have been. The senate lost a couple of good Democrats and the lower branch of congress missed a lovely chance to be Democratic.

Some fellows have a strange way of telling the news. For instance there is the one that telegraphs out from fronton that the Democrats elected only two candidates. A natural inference from that is that Lawrence county is a Democratic county and a sweeping victory for the G. O. P. had been won. Truth is, and these fellows are strangers to it, Democrats successful at any election in Lawrence county are scarier than hen's teeth growing on a thorn tree.

Dollar wheat wasn't quite so unpopular in the rural districts as it might have been and seemingly the farmers are not particularly interested in cheaper fertilizer. Perhaps, the latter is because they don't get anything for what they raise anyway.

The Eleventh, the anniversary of the day when half the world laid down its arms, and scant thought is given to it.

Christmas is nearing. There will be the usual injunction to "buy early" and the inevitable rush days.

Lucasville is now after a bank. That progressive village is after so many good things that it is sure to get most of them.

Taking it by and all Scioto county didn't do so badly by the Democratic ticket.

To be sure it had to be a man from Ohio that sent Miles Poindexter back to the tall timber way out in Washington.

Choosing a Democratic governor, a Republican senator and a woman and Socialist to the supreme court, Ohio was certainly on some jumbo, Tuesday last.

Kansas has again seen the light and followed it. She elected the entire Democratic state ticket.

The strayed sheep are coming back to the true fold. There is the proper rejoicing thereat.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, November 11—Just-bum Square was caught in the last lap of night—the mysterious hush that precedes the dawn. The clatter of elevated trains and the roar of traffic were stilled. Cooks and waiters dozed in the all night eateries. A pack of alley cats slunk along the shadows.

The oppressive pall of poverty hung as heavily as the river fog. In front of a closed pawnshop a shawled woman hugged a whimpering mite of humanity. At her feet was an old-fashioned pendulum clock—a pledge for the morning breakfast.

A hollow-cheeked rag-picker moved along the curb with his spiked stick. In a doorway a sprawled figure with mouth agape slept off a ro-gun whiskey stupor. From a Chinatown crooked street a half-caste woman stole forth for a breath of early morning air.

Northward along the Bowery the dim light of an undertaking parlor threw a dull, greenish splorch on the pave. Then from the East River a tug shrieked its siren. Chatham Square began to awaken. The first of the elevated express came rushing from Brooklyn Bridge.

Fire escapes filled with dressers. There is not room in a crowded tenement of mornings for all. On a hash emporium blackboard a sleepy-eyed waiter began to chalk "Beef stew and coffee 15 cents." The first of the stragglers seeped up from dugouts under the bridge—the shifters and pan-handlers.

Newspaper wagons lumbered up town from Newspaper Row. Bread and milk carts added their din to the gathering crescendo. The newsies began their foghorn aria. A huffy-gurdy ground out "Some Sunny Day." Cleaning women—their day's work done—moved along in groups to wash.

And as I walked to a bulletin board in front of a newspaper shop a fresh poster read:

"AMERICANS SHOCKED AT EUROPEAN POVERTY."

Real life situations are often too impossible for fiction. A New York Judge paid a recent visit to Sing Sing. He had a dinner engagement and remained longer than he intended. He asked the warden if there was a barber shop near the station where he could be shaved while awaiting his train. The warden suggested the prison barber. He was very capable, he added. The jurist settled himself in the chair. A prisoner came in and began stropping the razor. He looked at the judge and they recognized each other instantly. The judge had sentenced the prisoner to life imprisonment. "I was never so anxious to get through a shave in my life," said the judge. "Is it any wonder I told him 'once over, please'?"

A cross section of the sordid side of Broadway was revealed in the criminal courts the other day. Be-

Dreams

(By Blaine C. Bigler)
The fire burns low upon the hearth. And in the glowing embers I see again bright scenes of youth.

Which my lone heart remembers: Some by-gone days from vanished May.

From April and November. Within the glowing firelight there, I read again life's story.

His toil, his pain, his joy, his care, From youth so rare, when skies are fair, And life is full of glory.

As I sit here within the gleam, Old Father Time is fleeting: He steals the moments as I dream, As if in wanton cheating; And in my dream my vision beam, My fondest hopes completing.

A Penny Saved—

For many minutes there had been a violent ringing at the night bell of a pharmacy until finally the druggist who lived above, sleepily crawled into his clothes and went downstairs. At the door he was confronted by a son of auld Scotland.

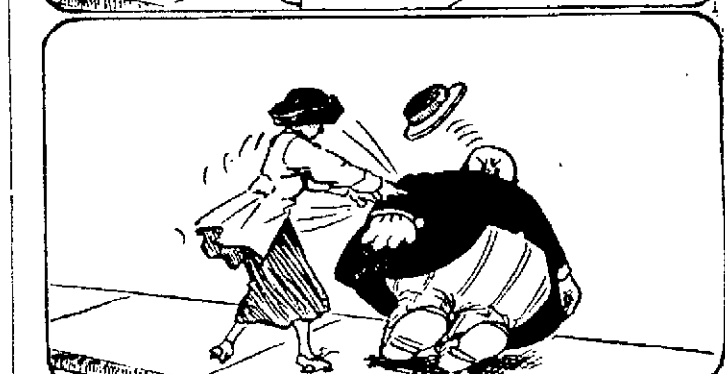

"Five cents' worth o' bicarbonate of soda for indigestion, if ye please," the latter requested.

"A nickel's worth o' bicarbonate of soda at this time of night?" exploded the druggist. "Gettin' me up for that when a glass of hot water would have done as well."

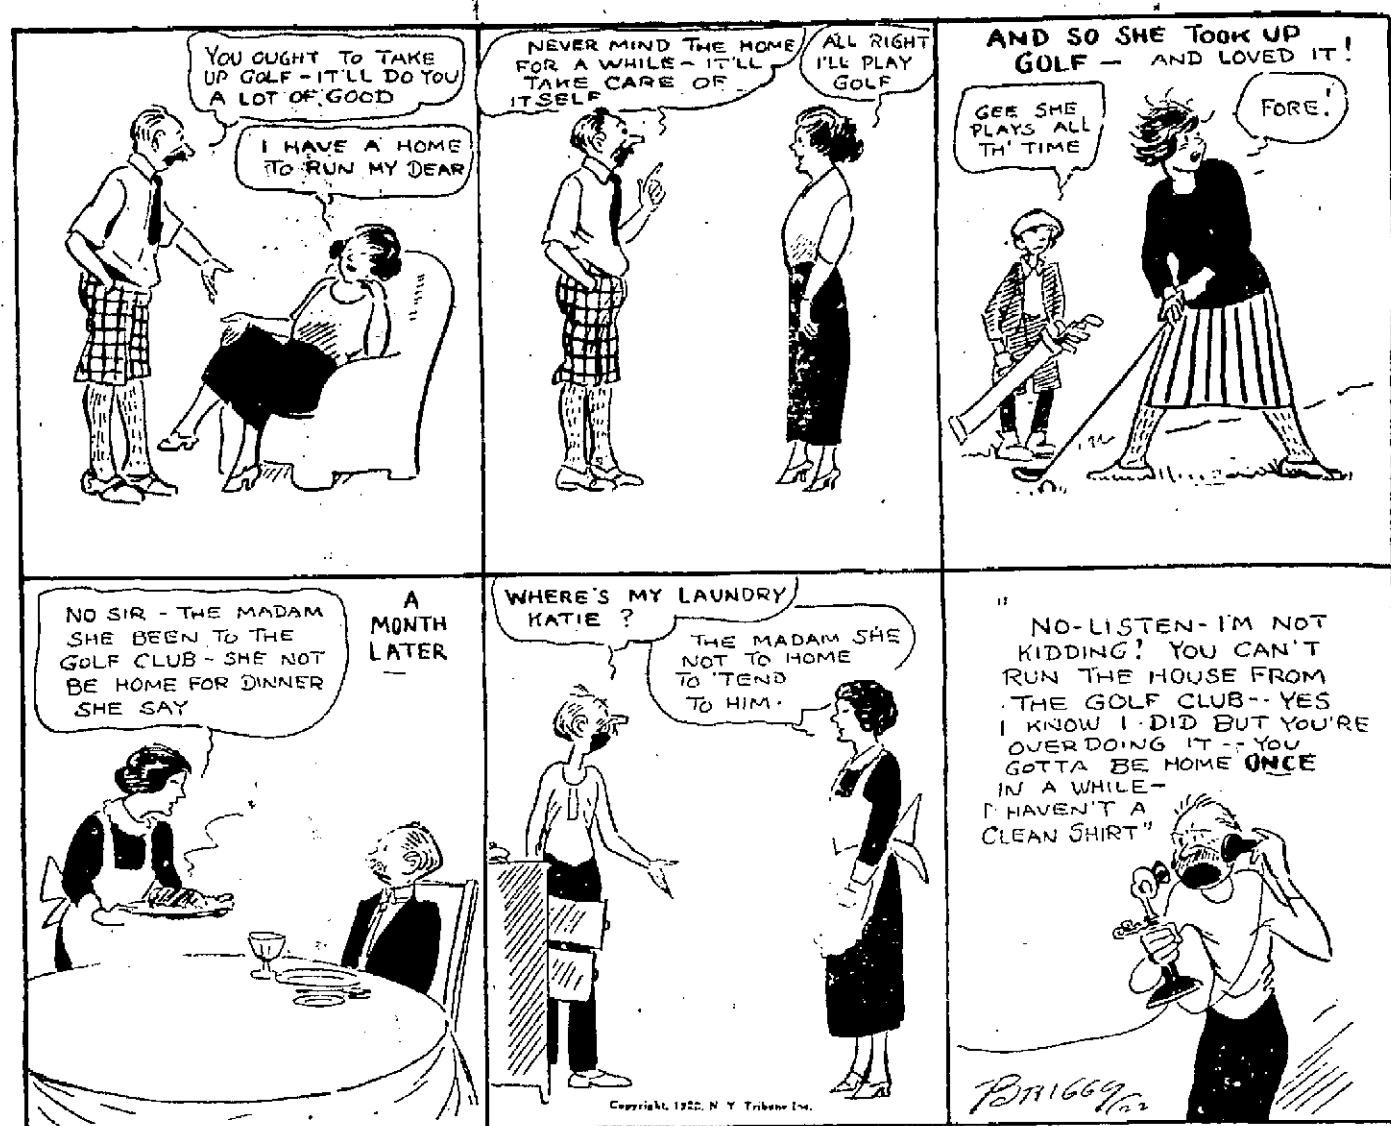

"Well, well," returned the Scot, pocketing his money. "I thank ye for the advice, and I'll no' bother ye after all. Good night!"

Treat for the Boarders

It was in the thirteenth of all thirty boarding houses.

"Mother," asked the landlady's daughter, "what shall I do with these busting threads?"

"Give them to me," was the reply, "and I'll stir them into the frosting for the coconut cake."

37. That papers and magazines addressed to the combat troops be forwarded to them by the S. O. S. after the S. O. S. has finished reading them. The doughboy appreciates that life in Paris, Lyons and Bordeaux must be a pretty dull affair and doesn't object to others reading his magazine, but would like to get his mail eventually—after everybody else is through with it, of course.

Bully

First Rookie: "So you scored three bullseyes in succession. How did that affect the fellows that have been kidding you about your shooting?"

Second Likewise: "Oh, it scared them."

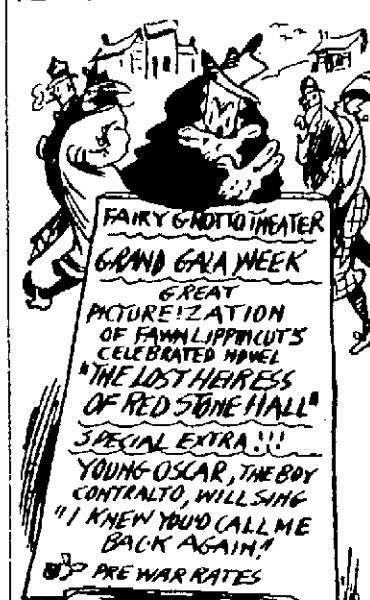

Modus Operandi

The rookie was grumbling about some dirt in his food—for he was at the tender age of rookielood before the time when a little dirt is necessary to lend the proper savour.

"Smutter?" belabored the mess officer. "Stop whining. Don't you know you're here to serve your country?"

"Yes, sir," was the humble reply. "but not to eat it. And I wanted to serve it—not have it served to me."

Abe Martin

Speakin' o' big crowds, we recall when Bryan spoke here just before his last defeat, a woman passed her baby over the heads o' the crowd for the 'Commodore's' kiss, an' when she got her kid back he was married an' settled in Kokomo. Wouldn't it be great if everbody wuz as polite an' affable as the fellow that says he don't want 'a' tick up any o' your time?
